

The Deduction Allocation screen allows the Designated Group Employer (DGE) to allocate excess deduction to other group members.

Where a DGE's calculated deduction entitlement exceeds their total South Australian wages and the DGE has at least one other group member who employs in South Australia then the DGE is able to allocate unused deduction to the group member(s) that employ in South Australia. Only group members that employ in South Australia can be allocated unused deduction.

The Deduction Allocation screen displays the:

- Total Deduction Entitlement for Group
- DGE's details including the amount of Claimed Deduction
- Excess Deduction Entitlement for Group
- group members who employ in South Australia (these group members are obtained from the data you recorded on the Group Wages screen)
- Total Unallocated Deduction.

Deduction Allocation
Total Deduction Entitlement for Group			600,000
Name	ABN	SA wages	Claimed Deduction
ABC PTY LTD	11111111111	307,000	307,000
Excess Deduction Entitlement for Group			293,000
Name	ABN	SA wages	Claimed Deduction
123 PTY LTD	22222222222	350,000
Total Unallocated Deduction			293,000

1. Enter the value of the deduction that you wish to allocate to a group member(s) against their name(s) in the Claimed Deduction column.

Amounts should be entered in dollar amounts only, if you do not wish to allocate any deduction to a group member enter a zero (0) in the Claimed Deduction column.

You cannot allocate a deduction amount to a group member that exceeds the value displayed in the SA Wages column for that group member.

Deduction Allocation
Total Deduction Entitlement for Group			600,000
Name	ABN	SA wages	Claimed Deduction
ABC PTY LTD	11111111111	307,000	307,000
